STRONGER WITH BROADBAND

The internet keeps essential services going.

Amid the challenging pandemic affecting our nation, state and service area, our customers need strong connections more than ever.

Business owners, families, community leaders, seniors, educators, healthcare professionals, government officials, the transportation industry and food production workers—keeping you all connected is our priority and privilege.

The internet offers enormous potential to keep us all connected. And in times of adversity and uncertainty, it has the power to do so much more, including:

Keeping us updated and informed

Allowing many people to remain employed

Keeping us closer to family, friends and co-workers

Keeping us safer

SCHOOLS:

Students have access to their schoolwork through Distance Learning. Teachers are staying connected to students using cloud-based services like Google Drive. Arvig® has deployed the Education Assistance Program to families of K-12 students to receive free internet service so their education can continue with schools closed.

BUSINESSES:

Companies temporarily closed to the public can continue serving customers and employing their teams thanks to telecommuting and broadband technology. Restaurants still can process orders and offer carry-out.

HEALTH CARE:

Clinics and hospitals continue to serve patients; electronic medical records can still be accessed and telemedicine remains an option with stay-at-home orders in effect.

MEDIA:

News organizations keep the public informed, with many even lifting their article paywalls to make sure everyone has the latest information for free.

GOVERNMENT:

From first responders to utilities managers, critical services remain in operation in towns and cities.

COMMERCE:

Online shopping and ordering continues, even with shipping delays or limited warehouse teams.

FINANCIAL SERVICES:

Banks and financial institutions continue to offer online account management and bill-pay services.

DAILY LIFE:

Church services can be broadcast at home through the use of live streams on social media and websites. Book clubs gather via Hangouts. Friends keep in touch on Skype and Facetime.

From all of us at Arvig, we hear you, we're here for you.
